Dear Professor Battiston,

Alpha Magnetic Spectrometer (AMS) is having a ground safety review at Kennedy Space Center on September 8-10. This is in preparation for the tests that AMS will have at the European Space Technology Center for thermal vacuum and electromagnetic interference testing. In accordance to the letter that Agenzia Spaziale Italiano (ASI) President sent to the European Space Agency (ESA) Director of Human Space Flight, Roberto Vittori is identified as the contact point between ASI, ESA and the AMS program. In consideration that he is also the ESA crew safety representative, the AMS Project Office would welcome his participation as an AMS collaborator in the meeting.

Sincerely,
